

As the day was just beginning
And the darkness slowly thinning
As I stared up at the ceiling
Planning how to spend the day...

I thought and thought extensively;
Chose wisely productivity —
Though I've no real proclivity
For spending time that way.

And so I took my things, and went.
I walked to a cafe, content
With how I thought the day'd be spent
If on this course I stayed.

I sat; worked on a problem-set.
Solved not a single question; yet
Convinced myself: "A break, I bet,
Will help!" (Sloth finds a way.)

And so what happy bit-of-chance,
What total, utter happenstance,
That in the web's immense expanse
(Well-hidden; tucked away)

I found this site which I must vow
To not revisit —starting now!
Or... ten more minutes, I'll allow...
...but reddit took the day.